

opportunities to train for teaching and engage in lecturing to give them classroom experience and the ability to be prepared for academic careers. Those interested in academic careers should also have programs of studies that give them breadth of knowledge as well as depth in their chosen area of study. Develop university level course for graduate

